him to this investigation.

Col. Squire was recalled and testified that Ren ington was not in any way interested it getting up the charges against Place; Remington has been asked by the French government to make certain statements ab at Place; this was called out by the Fre ch government and not volunteered by Remington; Remington applied personal v to his friends, including those with who me held official relations, to furnish papers not to establish his charac-ter, but to correct misrepresentations abroad; he papers were simply for the vindication of Remington; the latter was not called nor were the papers used at the second trial of Place, but were used before the Parliamentary committee; the papers were translated into the French language for convenience, and a printed copy handed to each mem-ber of that committee; witness was sure copies were lurnished to the members of the Court that tried Place; to his knowl-edge letters or papers were not authenti-cated by the Secretary of State; he thought that the signatures of the writer of the letters were authenticated at the American Legation in Paris.

cured to help in the settlement of Remington's accounts with the French government, the accounts had been settled by the Committee on War Contracts; witness understood only a delay in paying; they were waiting to ascertain what will come out of this investigation. It matters remain as they now are, Remingtons would be losers. The Remingtons, if they had chosen, could have taken advantage of the French government, as they had been offered larger prices for arms by private parties. The witness gave an account of $5,000 of Remington certificates or stock which, Gen. Ingalls testified, had once been in his pos-Ingalls testified, had once been in his pos . He never be-lieved that Ingalls did anything in the purchase of arms; the stock was not pur-chased with reference to any sale or effect to to be produced; if it had been legitimate the stock would have been worth three times as much as it is represented to be. Witness was then examined at length in regard to his call at the War Department to purchase arms.

Gen. Ingalls was recalled—Had never ad any interviews with Mrs. Mason at the loffman House in company with Gen. Dy-r, about the sale of arms; nor had he had conversation with any other women on the subject. He repeated his former testimony that $5,000 worth of scrip came into the possession of that party in 1868 from General Butterfield, with whom he had a private transaction, and on the exchange of private papers. In contradiction of the Marquis de Chambrun witness said he had had no connection whatever with Remington.

By Senator Patterson—There was no truth what ver in the statement of Mrs. Mason as to himself. He never had any conversation with McKenzie about the purchase of arms.

Thos. Richardson was recalled and gave testimony as to the papers produced by Remington, corroborating the statement that the French Government had passed Remington's account.

MOHMEMPHIS. HIM Frightful Explosion in the Cellar of the Peabody House.

MEMERIS, April 11:—Just betora goon a terrific explosion occurred in the cellar under the clothing house of Johnson & Vance, in the Peabody Hotel, caused by a leaking gas-pipe. The clerk went into the cellar with a light to ascertain the cause when an explosion followed. Two men, who were standing on the jews. men, who were standing on the iron men, who were standing on the iron plates in front, of the door, were blown into the air and fell back into the cellar among the debris, but fortunately escaped unburt, though badly rightened. The inmates of the adjoining stores and hotel rushed frantically into the street; the wildest consternation prevailed among them. Order was soon restored and the damars found to be instantically damage found to be insignificant.
